Large orders have been placed with Swiss manufacturers of heating appliances for the German army. The winter campaign seems to be looked forward to without much apprehension in Germany as the measures taken to economize food supplies have been so effective that no lack of provisions is feared. Austria, however, according to reliable reports, will find the situation more serious, as the same precautions were not taken and their application is not so easy as in Germany.

(By Associated Press.)

TOKIO, Aug. 24.--Owing to persistent reports that armed German merchantmen have been sighted in the South Seas, the Japanese navy has dispatched several fast cruisers to search the waters of the southern Pacific. Advice from Australia placed one of these Germans in the eastern Pacific in the neighborhood of the entrance to the Panama canal where she was supposed to be waiting to prey upon merchantmen of the allies.

Rear Admiral Suzuki, vice minister of marine, explains the dispatch of warships as a measure of precaution. As a matter of fact, he said, the navy scarcely credited the reports, but desired to make certain that shipping was safe in the orient. About fifty German vessels were tied up in various neutral ports in the South Seas. If properly armed, at least thirty of them could do active service as volunteer warships. It was just possible that one or two had escaped.
